Audience

Global Policy is read and subscribed to by leading academic institutions and multilateral international organisations. We produce five core journal issues per year, including an annual issue of Global Policy: Next Generation, and numerous thematic Special Issues.

Our online platform (www.globalpolicyjournal.com) averages around 1,000 users per day. They turn to Global Policy for access to the journals, daily online opinion pieces, occasional essays, videos, webinars, and other events. We have over 12,000 followers on Twitter and a substantial presence on Facebook and LinkedIn. Our weekly newsletter detailing the platform's latest content goes out to over 7,000 contacts and Global Policy's distinguished board members.

Global Policy has partnerships and works with a wide range of academic and practitioner audiences. They include the Global Policy North Network of leading universities in the United Kingdom, the Observer Research Foundation in India, the Emerging Global Governance (EGG) group at SAIS, Johns Hopkins University, and the international Global Governance Futures (GGF) group of young leaders. They ensure Global Policy stays connected to and is informed by cutting edge research, debate, and practice, and that its reach extends to audiences beyond academic campuses.

About US

Founded in 2010, Global Policy is an innovative and interdisciplinary journal and online platform that brings together world class academics and leading practitioners to analyse public and private solutions to global issues. It focuses on understanding global collective action problems and competing and converging discourses about global risks and policy responses. Global Policy is non-partisan and strives to showcase independent, rigorous research and argument from a diversity of contributors.
